Sustainable Living Cabins provide overnight comfort while using many energy and water conservation measures. These measures include:

- All electricity is produced by solar panels
- Walls and ceiling constructed from Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs)
- Triple pane windows
- Water conserving plumbing
- Use of native and local materials
- Comfort air flow design
- Promoting outdoor enjoyment

Other Sustainability Features

- Water Conservation - Sensor faucets and dual-flush toilets assure only the amount of water needed is used.
- Nature's Resources - Oak bat and board siding was harvested locally from Buchanan County forests.
- Keeping it Local - Most materials in the cabin were manufactured and installed by people from within 60 miles of Fontana Park
